This very entertaining show

LAST night I attended the opening night of Our House at The Playhouse theatre.

All the members of Worle Operatic and Dramatic Society (WODS) had masses of enthusiasm in this very entertaining show.

It is refreshing to see an 'am dram' group tackle a different production rather than performing one of the well-known pieces.

The show went on at a very lively pace and there were some excellent performances from Jake Fisher as Joe (how many costume changes did he go through?), Bethany Lunam as Reecey and some nice comical pieces from Kate Emmery as Angie and Nat Kessel as Billie to name a few but the whole cast could not be faulted throughout the production.

It was disappointing not to see more theatregoers on the evening I attended but this is the case because most people don't try anything they don't know or have not heard of. Well done to WODS for a great show and for reminding us of the great songs of the 80s' band Madness.
