

Your iwitness24:

FABULOUS photos continue to flood into our new website, with news, entertainment and stunning scenery all featuring in the latest submissions.

We created iwitness24 to help strengthen our links with the community and it can be used on a PC or smartphone. It could not be easier to sign up and register as a member and you can start sharing your material.

Your pictures, videos or stories will be displayed on the iwitness24 website and will go directly to our news teams where they could be selected for publication in the paper or on our website.

We want to see your pictures from around the community, whether it be a breaking news story, a scenic spot, an event you have attended, some freak weather conditions or an unusual occurrence that makes you stop and look.

We would also love to hear from you if you are attending an event, big or small. Some of the features of the iwitness24 site include:

- Follow friends and favourite users and keep up to date with their latest submissions.

- Rise through the ranks by adding more photos and videos, voting for other people's pictures and commenting on them.

- Take part in our Call for Witnesses scheme, which will see us sending out requests to iwitness24 users for pictures of a certain incident or events.

To find out more and sign up just visit <http://weston.iwitness24.co.uk>, download our smartphone app or visit www.westonmercury.co.uk and follow the links to iwitness24.

▲ The calm before the storm. Submitted by Chris Ager.

▲ Hayley Martin sent in a picture of Worle Operatic and Dramatic Society performing Spend Spend Spend. She told us: "I spent my afternoon watching a brilliant rendition of the musical. The entire cast, especially the chorus, as well as the production team, should be thoroughly proud for producing such an amazing and captivating show and I look forward to watching their next show, Oklahoma."

▲ Dave Frost sent us this photo following the heavy downpours last week - looks like the dogs were having fun on Weston Airfield anyway!

▲ Jo Carr sent us this picture of the reflections on Weston's sea on a bright, sunny day.
